

Masonic Shoe

Masonic Blue Slipper

The Masonic Shoe is symbolic of a physical confirmation of a spoken deed.

To unloose one's shoe and give it to another was the way of confirming a contract in ancient times.

In The First Degree: The Shoe Denotes a Promise

In the Book of Ruth, we read that Boaz, (a wealthy land owner) and Solomon's Great Great Grandfather, having proposed to the nearest kinsman of Ruth to exercise his legal right by redeeming the land of Naomi, which was offered for sale, and marrying her daughter-in-law. The kinsman being unable to do so resigned his right of purchase to Boaz.

The scriptures go on to say:

Ruth 4: 7-8:

"Now this was the manner in former time in Israel concerning redeeming and concerning changing, for to confirm all things; a man plucked off his shoe and gave it to his neighbor: and this was a testimony in Israel."

Therefore, the kinsman said unto Boaz, "Buy it for thee." So he drew off his shoe. The reference to the shoe in the First Degree is symbolic of a Covenant (a promise) to be entered into. In the Third Degree, the symbolism is altogether different:

Third Degree: Removal of Both Shoes When On Sacred Ground

Discalceation: Discalceation is the ceremony of the removal of both shoes as a token of respect when we are on or about to approach holy ground.

Exodus 3:5: The angel of the Lord, at the burning bush, exclaimed to Moses: "Draw not nigh hither. Put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place where on thou standest is holy ground."

Joshua 5:15: "And the captain of the Lord's host said unto Joshua, Loose thy shoe from off thy foot; for the place where on thou stand is holy."

The Rite of Discalceation has always been and is still used among the Jewish people and other Oriental nations when entering their temples and other sacred edifices.

Pythagoras to his Disciples: (in Greek) translated as:

"Offer sacrifice and worship with thy shoes off."

Mohammedans:

When Mohammedans are about to perform their devotions, they always leave their slippers at the door of the mosque.

Druids:

The Druids practiced the same custom whenever they practiced their sacred rites.

Ancient Peruvians:

The ancient Peruvians left their shoes at the porch when they entered the magnificent temple consecrated to the worship of the sun.

P.S.: While the Masonic shoe image at the top of this page is a modern-day shoe, it is noteworthy to remember that in ancient times, it was most probably a sandal.
